SEVEN THOUSAND LONDON CABBIES

Picturesque Feature of Streets of That City.

Great Metropolis Continually Confronted With Problem of Transportation.

SOMETHING OF THE SITUATION

London, Oct. 29.-Like other cities, London has its transportation problems, and they are the more serious than elsewhere because of the enormous area and population involved. Greater London now has nearly 7,000,000 people within its limits and includes a solid mass of buildings 30 miles in one direction and 19 miles in the other. There have been great improvements in the local transportation facilities during recent years, due chiefly to American enterprise. The late Charles T. Yerkes reorganized the underground system of railways and brought it up to date, but the increase in population and the demand for transportation seems to become greater and greater every year as II it never would be satisfied.

The dark, dismal, sooty tunnels filled with smoke and smells which Mr. Yerkes found when he came to London are now well ventilated, cheerful passages with plenty of all and light and lined with tile while the cars are brilliantly illuminated They are finished in rattan and light mahogany and the motive power is electricity, so that they run silently swiftly and smoothly and are as comfortable as underground cars can be. Electric surface cars run by storage batteries and underground and overground trolleys have been introduced in several directions and extend to all the suburbs. They are even laying a track on the Thames embankment, which is desecration because that should have been re tained as a promenade and a drive way. The county council, which is the municipal government of Lon don, is laying the tracks, however, so that nobody can object, and will op erate the cars as a belt line between two great systems on the south and the north sides of the Thames.

Bus Drivers. Notwithstanding the bright, new "tupenny tubes," with their swift and frequent electric trains, the favorite means of transportation it London is still the old-fashioned om nibus, and I do not think it will ever be superseded. For a man who is no. in a hurry, and especially for one who is fond of human nature and loves to observe the conduct of his fellow men, I do not know any more agreeable means of getting about a condition of the cond crowded city like London than in s seat on the deck of one of these buses. You have a continuous pano ranta of human affairs passing be elevated platform; and, if you ar so fortunate as to get a seat next t the driver, you can enjoy a continu ous conversational monologue, an get a great deal of valuable informa tion and philosophy.

There are more than 7,000 buse on the streets of London, running i every direction, to every part of th city, at anav erage fare of 1 cent pe mile. There are five big companie and several smaller ones. The larges the London Genera; Omnibus compa ny, has 1,397 omnibuses on the road and employes 3,500 men and 15. 617 horses. In 1995 this compan alone carried 215,000,000 passen gers; during the first six months o 1906 it carried 108,341,351 and rai 16,652,150 miles. The receipts fo 1905 were $2,002,702, and for th first six months of the current year $1,202,796, an average of $11.55 pe omnibus per day. The routes var: from six to ten miles.

Eat Crickets if Too Fat.

(San Francisco News Letter.) We poke fun at the Chinese ideals of medicine, but events in Sacramen to prove that the Mongolians know more than we give them credit for For centuries the Chinese have used ericket stew, powdered erickets, essence of cricket and plain raw crickets for the reduction of obesity, as they use frog soup for stomach trou-

Well, in Sacramento it has been noticed that the cats have grown wonderfully thin and had no appetite, refusing to be tempted by cream and other dainties. It has been discovered that they have been feasting on Crickets. The insects have satisfied their appetites, but have reduced them to skeletons. The next thing to be put on the market will be a new patent medicine under the name of "Cricketine."
